"Made in USA Policeyment"

I think the standard for "Made in the USA" should stay as it is. When I shop for my family, I look to see where it was made before buying. It is very important to me, as a consumer, to purchase things made in America. I will even pay more to do just that. I like knowing where my money is going. The very idea that my money could go to a communist country like China without my knowledge concerns me a great deal.

Things should only have "Made in USA" on their label if that is where it was made + if not, it should list the country where it was made.
