Docket No. 9401

RESPONDENT ILLUMINA INC.'S SECOND MOTION FOR IN CAMERA
REVIEW OF CONFIDENTIAL DOCUMENTS

Pursuant to 16 C.F.R. § 3.45(b), the Protective Order and Scheduling Order entered in this matter, and in response to the Court's August 12, 2021 Order ruling on Respondent Illumina, Inc.'s Motion for In Camera Treatment (the "August 12th Order"), Respondent Illumina, Inc. ("Illumina") has substantially narrowed the exhibits for which it seeks in camera treatment and files its Second Motion for In Camera Treatment. Per the Court's August 12th Order, Illumina has conducted a complete and thorough re-review of every exhibit identified in its original motion for in camera treatment. In Illumina's original motion, it requested in camera treatment for 2,485 potential trial exhibits. After review, Illumina has reduced the total number of exhibits requested for in camera treatment to 1,301.¹

Illumina respectfully seeks in camera treatment of these 1,311 exhibits containing confidential and competitively sensitive information, because public disclosure of these documents “will likely result in a clearly defined, serious injury” to Illumina, as explained here and in the accompanying Declaration of Roland Schwillinski. 16 C.F.R. § 3.45(b).

I. LEGAL STANDARD

In camera treatment of trial exhibits is permitted when “public disclosure will likely result in a clearly defined, serious injury to the . . . corporation requesting in camera treatment” or if the material “constitutes sensitive personal information.” 16 C.F.R. § 3.45(b). Applicants should make a “clear showing that the information concerned is sufficiently secret and sufficiently material to their business that disclosure would result in serious competitive injury.” In re Otto Bock Healthcare N. Am., 2018 WL 3491602 at *1 (July 2, 2018). Courts consider the following factors to determine whether in camera treatment is justified:

(1) the extent to which the information is known outside of [the] business; (2) the extent to which it is known by employees and others involved in [the] business; (3) the extent of measures taken by [the company] to guard the secrecy of the information; (4) the value of the information to [the company] and to . . . competitors; (5) the amount of effort or money expended by [the company] in developing the information; (6) the ease or difficulty with which the information could be properly acquired or duplicated by others.

In re Bristol-Myers Co., 90 F.T.C. 455, 456-57 (1977). “The likely loss of business advantages is a good example of a clearly defined, serious injury.” In re Hoechst Marion Roussel, Inc., 2000 FTC LEXIS 138, at *6 (Sept. 19, 2000).

Once the party makes a showing that a clearly defined, serious injury would result from disclosure of the information at issue, in camera treatment is warranted unless the information is important to “explaining the rationale [to the public] of FTC decisions.” In re Otto Bock, 2018 WL 3491602 at *1.

The Court must also consider the appropriate time frame to maintain in camera treatment. Indefinite in camera treatment is warranted when “the need for confidentiality of the material . . . is not likely to decrease over time.” Id. at *2. Courts recognize that trade secrets including “secret formulas, processes, other secret technical information, or information that is privileged” merit indefinite in camera treatment. Id. at *2. In addition, business records containing “customer names, pricing to customers, business costs and profits, . . . business plans, marketing plans, or sales documents” may also warrant in camera treatment for up to five years. Id.

II. ARGUMENT

There are numerous documents likely to be introduced as exhibits that contain trade secrets and business information, and the disclosure of this information would cause Illumina serious harm and the “loss of business advantages.” In re Hoechst Marion Roussel, Inc., 2000 FTC LEXIS 138, at *6. Illumina therefore seeks in camera treatment for the following categories of documents, which are broken down by individual document in Exhibit A.² Aside from documents categorized as Trade Secrets and Product Development or Sensitive Personal Information, for which Illumina seeks indefinite in camera treatment, Illumina seeks in camera treatment for ordinary business documents for a period of five years, a time period which the Court has already stated is appropriate. See August 12th Order at 4 (“Respondent’s request for in camera treatment for a period of five years for its ordinary business documents is appropriate”).

A. Trade Secrets and Product Development

The documents in this category describe the development and content of Illumina’s proprietary innovations, including Illumina’s next generation sequencing (“NGS”) platforms. Thus, they contain precisely the types of trade secrets including “secret formulas, processes, other secret technical information” that merit indefinite in camera treatment. In re Otto Bock, 2018 WL 3491602 at *2. Illumina previously moved for in camera treatment for 135 documents

² Due to their size, Illumina has provided the documents listed on Exhibit A List via File Transfer Protocol.

in this category but now only does so for 12 documents. These [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Illumina seeks indefinite in camera treatment of these documents due to the clearly defined, serious injury that would result from public disclosure. In re Otto Bock, 2018 WL 3491602 at *2. Public disclosure of such information would be catastrophic for Illumina’s business and would enable competitors to replicate Illumina’s products and otherwise devise strategies to better compete with Illumina’s products now and in the future, resulting in significant business harm to Illumina. Moreover, Illumina has expended hundreds of millions of dollars researching and developing these products. And this need for confidentiality “is not likely to decrease over time” because Illumina will continue to operate in this field using these trade secrets. In re Otto Bock, 2018 WL 3491602 at *2.

B. Financial Data

These documents depict detailed information about Illumina’s revenues, expenses, profits, losses, and other financial metrics that are not publicly reported. Courts recognize that disclosure of financial data such as “financial metrics, customer and supplier data, and market growth indicators” can cause serious injury to a company, justifying in camera treatment. In the Matter of 1-800 Contacts, 2017 FTC LEXIS 55, at *9 (F.T.C. April 4, 2017). The same is true for “purchase and sales data.” In the Matter of McWane Inc., 2012 FTC LEXIS 143, at *26-27

(F.T.C. Aug. 17, 2012); see also In re Otto Bock, 2018 WL 3491602 at *2 (listing “business costs and profits” and “business plans” among business records subject to in camera treatment).

Illumina previously moved for in camera treatment for 232 documents in this category; it now only does so for 134 such documents. Enabling competitors’ access to this otherwise confidential information could give them an unfair advantage against Illumina. Moreover, Illumina’s business partners and customers could use this data against Illumina in negotiating pricing and contracts. Financial data over three years old remains sensitive because third parties could still use it to infer Illumina’s present financial data. See In the Matter of E.I. Dupont De Nemours & Co., 97 F.T.C. 116 (1981) (granting in camera treatment for financial data older than years.) For instance, certain data over three years old which Illumina seeks in camera treatment for includes financial reports [REDACTED], which is still in effect today and under which certain test developers currently pay royalties. Illumina [REDACTED] would face clearly defined, serious injury from its disclosure because, among other things, it could affect current negotiations in that space.³

C. Pricing and Pricing Strategy

The documents in this category contain information disclosing Illumina’s product pricing, pricing analyses, and pricing strategy for its products. Courts recognize that business records disclosing “pricing to customers” warrant in camera treatment. In re Otto Bock, 2018 WL 3491602 at *2; In the Matter of 1-800 Contacts, 2017 FTC LEXIS 55, at *11 (protecting documents containing “pricing ... and internal analyses of customer demographics and buying patterns”); In the Matter of McWane, 2012 FTC LEXIS 143, at *7-8 (protecting “customer data, pricing and cost information, business strategies, and negotiating strategies”).

Illumina previously moved for in camera treatment for 411 documents in this category; it now only does so for 226 such documents. Illumina does not publicly advertise its pricing methods and policies for its customers and competitors to review, and only employees who need this information to perform their duties may access it. Publicizing this information would harm Illumina’s relationships with its customers and give them greater negotiating power against Illumina in future transactions, which would in turn cause commercial harm to Illumina. Illumina’s competitors could also use this information against Illumina. Even information older than three years remains competitively sensitive because these pricing strategies form the foundation of current strategies or are otherwise still relevant to Illumina’s activities today, and thus still useful to Illumina’s competitors and customers. See In the Matter of ProMedica Health System, Inc., 2011 WL 2258040, at *18 (May 25, 2011) (granting in camera treatment to documents older than three years because they “reflect . . . business strategies and can impact future negotiations” such that they “remain[] relevant and significant today”). Documents in this category include [REDACTED] and could therefore constrain Illumina in future negotiations.⁴

D. Sales and Marketing Strategy

Illumina seeks in camera review of documents detailing sales and marketing strategies because public disclosure would cause Illumina serious financial harm. See In re Benco Dental Supply Co., 2018 FTC LEXIS 156, at *23 (F.T.C. October 11, 2018) (granting “sales, pricing,

⁴ See, e.g., [REDACTED]

[and] rebates/discounts,” in camera treatment); In re Otto Bock, 2018 WL 3491602 at *2 (recognizing that “marketing plans” and “sales documents” may warrant in camera treatment); In re Champion Spark Plug Co. 1982 FTC LEXIS 85, at *3 (Apr. 5, 1982) (explaining that there is “ample support for granting in camera treatment for sales data of a type not normally disclosed” including data that would “give competitors a definite picture of [a company’s] relative size in a particular product line market which competitors could employ to their advantage”).

Illumina previously moved for in camera treatment for 529 documents in this category and now only does so for 256 such documents. Only employees who require this information to perform their duties have access to these strategies. Disclosure of this otherwise confidential information would give Illumina’s competitors insight into how best to market their products as compared to Illumina, which could result in Illumina losing business to its competitors both now and in the future. This could also undermine Illumina’s relationships with its current and future customers, giving them greater negotiating power and resulting in commercial harm. Sales and marketing strategies that predate three years ago are no less relevant now because Illumina continues to employ these strategies or otherwise uses them as the foundation for Illumina’s current strategies. See In the Matter of the Coca-Cola Co., 1990 FTC LEXIS 364, *2 (F.T.C. October 17, 1990) (protecting “market research” older than three years). For instance, many of the documents older than three years that Illumina seeks protection for relate to internal discussions and documents [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]⁵ Disclosure of such

⁵ See, e.g., [REDACTED]

information would undermine Illumina's position with these customers and any similarly situated customers.

E. Regulatory Strategy

These documents reflect Illumina's efforts to seek FDA approval for its products, including internal analyses and the details of clinical and other studies conducted in connection with these products. In camera treatment for this information is appropriate. See In the Matter of Altria Grp., Inc., & Juul Labs, Inc., No. 9393, 2021 WL 2258803, at *6 (May 19, 2021) (granting in camera treatment for regulatory strategy documents).

Illumina previously moved for in camera treatment for 181 documents in this category; it now only does so for 66 such documents. Documents revealing Illumina's FDA strategy, especially in a market with so much uncertainty surrounding FDA approval, would be extremely valuable to Illumina's competitors. Granting Illumina's competitors access to this information will likely result in competitive and commercial harm.

F. Strategic Initiatives

Illumina seeks to keep confidential documents that discuss strategic initiatives contemplated by its senior management. Courts routinely protect such documents. See In re Benco Dental, 2018 FTC LEXIS 156, at *23 (granting in camera treatment for "strategic business plans"); In re 1-800 Contacts, Inc., 2017 FTC LEXIS 55, at *9 (protecting "evaluations of market factors, market risks, company advantages, company disadvantages, and company risks, and which also review future strategic plans"); In the Matter of McWane, 2012 FTC

LEXIS 143, at *7-8 (protecting documents “which contain . . . business strategies, and negotiating strategies”).

Illumina previously moved for in camera treatment for 979 documents in this category and now only does so for 687 such documents. These strategic initiatives are kept confidential to ensure Illumina can negotiate fairly with its partners and compete fairly with its rivals. Disclosure of this information would likely result in serious injury to Illumina because it would provide the public with insight into the content of Illumina’s internal deliberations around strategic initiatives. Illumina’s competitors could integrate this information into their own business strategy or tailor their strategic initiatives to better compete with Illumina. Illumina would also be disadvantaged in future corporate transactions. Information older than three years is still useful to Illumina’s competitors and thus could still harm Illumina because the strategies are still in effect and influence Illumina’s current strategies. See In the Matter of the Coca-Cola Co., 1990 FTC LEXIS 364, at *2 (protecting “strategy planning data” older than three years). Specifically, Illumina’s strategic planning process occurs many years in advance; therefore, obtaining such documents that are more than three years old is likely to reveal information about Illumina’s current and future market strategy.⁶

G. Third Party/Customer Information

These documents contain sensitive business information related to Illumina’s relationships with third parties, including customers and other business partners, so in camera treatment is appropriate. In the Matter of Polypore Int'l, No. 9327, 2009 WL 2056296, at *1 (July 7, 2009) (granting in camera treatment of “contract negotiations and customer contracts”).

Illumina previously moved for in camera treatment for 790 documents in this category and now only does so for 417 such documents. Only employees who need this information to perform their job duties may access it. Otherwise, public disclosure of these agreements and negotiations could jeopardize Illumina’s relationship with its customers, who could leverage the information to gain a strategic advantage in future negotiations. For example, a third party could compare its supply agreement with Illumina to a different party’s more favorable agreement and demand the same from Illumina. Because Illumina has long term contracts with its customers and many of its agreements entered into prior to three years ago are confidential and still active, information older than three years is no less harmful. In addition, insight into past negotiations and contracts can be used to undermine Illumina’s positions in future negotiations.

H. GRAIL Information

These documents contain sensitive business information related to Illumina’s relationship with GRAIL, including its agreements with GRAIL, the negotiation of the proposed transaction, and Illumina’s relationship with GRAIL in 2016 and 2017, respectively, so in camera treatment is appropriate. See In the Matter of N. Texas Specialty Physicians, No. 9312, 2004 WL 1571167, at *3 (Apr. 23, 2004) (granting in camera treatment of documents reflecting “ongoing negotiations”).

Illumina previously moved for in camera treatment for 240 documents in this category and now only does so for 168 such documents. Illumina limits access of this information to only those employees who need it because public disclosure could cause serious economic harm to Illumina. Competitors would gain insight into Illumina’s and GRAIL’s innovative businesses that they could use to tailor their businesses to better compete, while current and future customers could use it to undermine negotiations with Illumina. Documents more than three years old in this category include documents relating to Illumina's relationship with GRAIL; GRAIL would be harmed by the disclosure of such documents, like any third party would be regarding the disclosure of such sensitive business information. See In the Matter of Polypore Int'l, No. 9327, 2009 WL 2056296, at *1.

III. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, Illumina respectfully requests that its Motion be granted.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
BEFORE THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGES

In the Matter of

Illumina, Inc.,
a corporation, and

and

GRAIL, Inc.,
a corporation,

Respondents

Docket No. 9401

DECLARATION OF ROLAND SCHWILLINSKI

I, Roland Schwillinski, declare and state:

1. I am Vice President, Global IP and Litigation for Respondent Illumina, Inc. (“Illumina”).
2. I make this declaration in support of Respondent Illumina Inc.’s Motion for In Camera Review of Confidential Documents (“Motion”), and if called as a witness I could and would testify competently to such facts. Illumina seeks in camera treatment for the trial exhibits and portions of exhibits identified in Exhibit A.
3. I have reviewed and am familiar with the confidential documents (the “Confidential Documents”) identified in Exhibit A.
4. Given my position at Illumina, I have personal knowledge of information contained in the Confidential Documents, their competitive significance to Illumina, and the confidentiality protections afforded to this type of information by Illumina. Based on my review of Exhibit A, my conversations with the individuals who viewed the documents at my direction, my knowledge of Illumina’s business, and my familiarity with the confidentiality protections, I submit that disclosure of the Confidential Documents to the public – including to Illumina’s competitors and customers – would result in either a clearly defined, serious injury to Illumina, or the revelation of sensitive personal information.

5. In the ordinary course of business, Illumina would treat the information contained in the Confidential Documents as strictly confidential and would limit disclosure to employees that need to know the information to perform their business function. Illumina also takes reasonable steps to protect its electronically stored information to prevent access by third parties.

6. Each Exhibit identified in Exhibit A was designated as confidential material pursuant to the Protective Order entered in this action on March 30, 2021.

7. The Motion is narrowly tailored to protect Illumina’s confidential information. Pursuant to the Court’s August 12, 2021 Order, Illumina’s counsel carefully re-reviewed the proposed trial exhibits and provided me with the exhibits identified in Exhibit A. Counsel also described to me the approach used to select the documents identified in Exhibit A as well as the categories used to group the documents.

8. Illumina has grouped the documents identified in Exhibit A as follows:

- a. Trade Secrets and Product Development
- b. Financial Data
- c. Pricing and Pricing Strategy
- d. Sales and Marketing Strategy
- e. Regulatory Strategy
- f. Strategic Initiatives
- g. Third Party/Customer Information
- h. Grail Information
- i. Sensitive Personal Information

9. Each category describes materials that either (a) disclose confidential and competitively sensitive financial and business information, including proprietary business information, confidential pricing terms and structures, and information regarding margins and financial arrangements, or (b) reveal sensitive personal information. Competitors and third parties who access this information would either gain a significant business advantage over Illumina or obtain sensitive personal information to the detriment of the individual whose personal information was revealed. The below details the clearly defined, serious injuries that would result if each category of Confidential Documents were made public

10. Trade Secrets and Product Development. The documents in this category describe the development and content of Illumina's proprietary next generation sequencing ("NGS") innovations, including [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] These documents are competitively sensitive, so access is limited to key Illumina employees who need it to perform their job responsibilities. Public disclosure of these documents would be catastrophic for Illumina's business and would enable competitors to replicate Illumina's products and otherwise devise strategies to better compete with Illumina's products now and in the future, resulting in significant business harm. Moreover, Illumina has expended hundreds of millions of dollars researching and developing these products. And this need for confidentiality is not likely to decrease over time because Illumina will continue to operate in this field using these trade secrets.

11. Financial Data. These documents depict detailed information about Illumina's revenues, expenses, profits, losses, and other financial metrics that are not publicly reported. Although Illumina is a publicly held company, it does not publicly disclose all the financial metrics contained at issue, and only employees who require them to perform their duties have access. Enabling competitors' access to this otherwise confidential information could give them an unfair advantage. Moreover, Illumina's business partners and customers could use this data against Illumina in negotiating pricing and contracts. Financial data over three years old remains sensitive because third parties could still use it to undermine Illumina's present and future positions, or to infer Illumina's present financial data. In particular, certain data over three years old which Illumina seeks in camera treatment for includes financial reports [REDACTED], which is still in effect today. Illumina would face clearly defined, serious injury from its disclosure because, among other things, it could affect current negotiations in that space.

12. Pricing and Pricing Strategy. Illumina does not publicly advertise its pricing methods and policies for its customers and competitors to review, and only employees who need this information to perform their duties may access it. Publicizing this information would harm Illumina's relationships with its customers and give them significantly greater negotiating power against Illumina in future transactions, which would in turn cause serious commercial harm to Illumina. Illumina's competitors could also use this information against Illumina. Even information older than three years remains competitively sensitive because these pricing strategies form the foundation of current strategies or are otherwise still relevant to Illumina's activities today, and thus still useful to Illumina's competitors and customers. For example, Illumina seeks in camera treatment for [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] and could therefore constrain Illumina in future negotiations.

13. Sales and Marketing Strategy. Illumina seeks in camera review of documents detailing sales and marketing strategies because public disclosure would cause Illumina serious financial harm. Only employees who require this information to perform their duties have access to these strategies. Disclosure of this otherwise confidential information would give Illumina's competitors insight into how best to market their products as compared to Illumina, which could result in Illumina losing business to its competitors both now and in the future. This could also undermine Illumina's relationships with its current and future customers, giving them greater negotiating power and resulting in commercial harm. And sales and marketing strategies that predate three years ago are no less relevant now because Illumina continues to employ these strategies or otherwise uses them as the foundation for Illumina's current strategies. As an example, many of the documents older than three years that Illumina seeks protection for relate to internal discussions and documents [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Disclosure of such information would undermine Illumina's position with these and any similarly situated customers.

14. Regulatory Strategy. These documents reflect Illumina's efforts to seek FDA approval for its products, including internal analyses and the details of clinical and other studies conducted in connection with these products. Documents revealing Illumina's FDA strategy, especially in a market with so much uncertainty surrounding FDA approval, would be extremely valuable to Illumina's competitors. Granting Illumina's competitors access to this information about Illumina's products will likely result in competitive and commercial harm.

15. Strategic Initiatives. Illumina seeks to keep confidential documents that discuss strategic initiatives contemplated by its senior management. These strategic initiatives are kept confidential to ensure Illumina can negotiate fairly with its partners and compete fairly with its rivals. Disclosure of this information would likely result in serious injury to Illumina because it would provide the public with insight into the company's deliberative process with respect to strategic initiatives, as well as the content of those strategic initiatives themselves. Illumina's competitors could use integrate this information into their own business strategy or tailor their strategic initiatives to better compete with Illumina. Illumina would also be disadvantaged in future corporate transactions. Information older than three years is still useful to Illumina's competitors and thus could still harm Illumina because the strategies are still in effect and influence Illumina's current strategies. Specifically, Illumina's strategic planning process occurs many years in advance; therefore, obtaining such documents that are more than three years old is likely to reveal information about Illumina's current and future market strategy.

16. Third Party/Customer Information. These documents contain sensitive business information related to Illumina's relationships with third parties, including third party supply and license agreements as well as negotiations with third parties. Only employees who need this information to perform their job duties may access it. Otherwise, public disclosure of these agreements and negotiations could jeopardize Illumina's relationship with its customers, who could leverage the information to gain a strategic advantage in future negotiations. For example, a third party could compare its supply agreement with Illumina to a different party's more favorable agreement and demand the same from Illumina. Information older than three years is no less harmful now because agreements entered into more than three years ago are often still active and contain confidentiality provisions. They also provide insight into past negotiations and contracts can be used to undermine Illumina's positions in future negotiations.

17. GRAIL Information. These documents contain sensitive business information related to Illumina's relationships with GRAIL, including its agreements with GRAIL as well as the negotiation of the proposed transaction. Illumina limits access of this information to only those employees who need it because public disclosure could cause serious economic harm to Illumina. Competitors would gain insight into Illumina's and GRAILS's innovative NGS businesses that they could use to tailor their businesses to better compete, while current and future customers could use it to undermine negotiations with Illumina. Older documents remain competitively sensitive because documents concerning Illumina's relationship with GRAIL in 2016 and 2017 remain relevant to GRAIL's competitive position today, even more so while the proposed transaction is still pending.

18. Sensitive Personal Information. Illumina requests in camera treatment for certain portions of deposition transcripts that contain sensitive personal information, including the location of a witness's personal home address. Illumina therefore requests that the Court grant this information indefinite in camera treatment.

19. Because public disclosure of the Confidential Documents described herein is likely to result in either a clearly defined, serious injury to Illumina's financial position, or the revelation of sensitive personal information, Illumina requests that the documents identified in Exhibit A be given in camera treatment.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.
