

I have been an IBO for 5 years and the great thing about this business is I work it at my own pace and my success depends on my efforts. Not the efforts of someone else or knowing their financials. I know many other Ibos' financials, which proves to me it works and does not require more regulations.

I have the freedom to share this opportunity with people and they have the CHOICE to decide whether they want to be affiliated with this business and to become a business owner. The business brings commerce, content and community together. The process that is used to inform a new business owner offers them all the information necessary to make a sound decision. Sometimes the process may take a week or as little as an hour but that is their choice to decide not the choice of others. All future business owners are informed this is not a "get rich quick" plan and it does take time but that time is dependent on the person building the business. It can take a 6 months, a year or longer. It is completely dependant on the person building the business.

It is our choice to take a chance in life to better ourselves, we only have ourselves to blame if it does not work. These new laws are only going to help the fraudulent opportunities look more official. I can only see these new regulations causing more harm then good. We have a proven 40-year system that works. If business owners do not succeed it is their fault, not the business. People need to take responsibility for their own actions; implementation of new laws takes that away.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kelly Gross
