Dear Federal Trade Commission Member:

"Business Opportunity Rule, Matter No. R511993"

I am writing to ask that you reconsider some of the requirements you are proposing to regulate the direct sales industry. I am a Xango Consultant who has been proud to be involved in this business for 1 1/2 years. I began my Xango business to get my health back and also supplement my income. The income I earn has allowed me to be able to pay my bills in a timely manner.

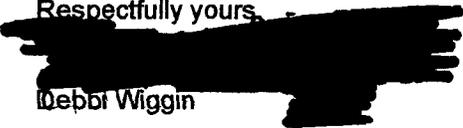

The proposals you are suggesting would make my business much more difficult and possibly impact my income. Specifically, in terms of the references requirement, I would never feel comfortable providing the personal contact information of other people in Xango, nor would I want my own personal information given out freely.

I feel good about sharing Xango's very real business opportunity with others, and want to continue to easily introduce Xango to more people who could benefit as I have. The regulations you are proposing would hinder me from doing so – and would hinder others in starting their business in the timeframe they choose.

Please know that I'm thankful that we have the FTC working to protect average consumers like me; but in this case, you will be working against me, impacting my income, my future and my family's future.

Please reconsider the regulations you are proposing.

Respectfully yours,

Debbi Wiggin
