

Posted At: Thursday, February 26, 2004 12:59 PM
Posted To: Microsoft Outlook Embedded Message
Conversation: consumer comment
Subject: consumer comment

So glad the FTC is running the spyware workshop.

Comment: before installing anti-spyware software, the functionality of my personal computer was so horrendous: I would literally keep books by my personal computer; I could read a full page before my computer would respond to commands while on the Internet. This gave me something constructive to do. I was angry most of the time and accomplished little.

Now, I have NO books by my computer because it runs so efficiently and quickly after I run my anti-spyware software each day before logging onto the Internet!

Thanks for reading my comment!