I am writing as a victim of spyware companies. I have lost data, spent significant sums of money and been annoyed and inconvenienced by these unscrupulous bad actors. They imbedded tracking software that distributed passwords, and caused me to be inundated with pornography. They loaded other software that rendered my computer nearly useless because it continually reset my browser to their sites. Please make this stop. Otherwise, the internet will grind to a stop and machines will be cluttered with layer after layer of various patching software (many times sold by the perpetrators) designed to stop this junk.
